

LANDING RESISTED.

have been notified by telegraph of the existing condition of affairs, and word from them is anxiously awaited by lovers of law and order.

County Judge R. M. Smith and Lawyer E. G. Fischer started for Brooklyn this morning to apply to some Justice of the Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the quarantine officers from landing or attempting to land any passengers from the infected ships at Fire Island or any other point on the Long Island shore.

Conference with State Officers.
At 6 o'clock this morning the steamer Empire, having on board a committee composed of members of the I. I. Board of Health and prominent citizens left Bay Shore for Fire Island. At the latter place the committee were met by President Wilson of the New York Board of Health; Dr. Cyrus Edson and Lawyer K. R. Johnson. Among those of the local committee were William H. Young, President of the I. I. Board of Health; Justice J. B. Studley, Dr. W. A. Baker, Health Officer of Bay Shore, and others. The New York health officials and the local health authorities at once held a consultation with a view of adjusting the difficulty.

President Wilson told the committee in the plainest terms that Fire Island would be occupied for the purposes for which it had been purchased by the state, and that it would be folly on the part of any of the local authorities to question the right of the state in the matter. Mr. Wilson added that Gov. Flower would send troops to Fire Island, if necessary, to prevent any acts of violence or interference with the quarantine officials in the performance of their duty.

The persons who remained in the Surf Hotel at Fire Island last night were the New York health officials, the servants, Steward Gannon and a small army of newspaper reporters.

The feeling against Capt. Sammis, who sold Fire Island to the state authorities, is very bitter. Heretofore Capt. Sammis was one of the most popular hotel-keepers on the south side of Long Island. He is now bitterly detested by those who were formerly his warmest friends, and in some instances he has been threatened with violence. Capt. Sammis, however, thinks he has a right to dispose of his property as he saw fit.

At noon the excitement was at the highest pitch, when a despatch was received here to the effect that Judge Bernard, of the Supreme Court, had granted an injunction restraining the state authorities from landing quarantine passengers at Fire Island.

This news was received with intense satisfaction by the excited natives and the local health authorities.

Shortly before this despatch arrived news was received stating that the Cepheus had again started from quarantine for Fire Island, having on board the first cabin passengers of the Normanna. Serious trouble was threatened if the Cepheus attempts to land her passengers at the Surf Hotel.

Dr. Voight's Authority Denied.
Dr. Voight, who has been placed in charge of quarantine matters at Fire Island, this morning ordered off a crowd of ill-situated constables who landed from small boats on the state's property. He was answered by derisive cheers and defiance. The crowd denied that Dr. Voight had authority to act.

In the hotel Frank H. Johnson declared intention of waiting until telegraphic news of the result of the application for an injunction could be received and related Dr. Voight's attempt to arrest him.

Mussey's saloon, just outside the limits of the state's property, is the rendezvous of the ill-situated. Dr. Voight has ordered it to be closed. His order has been disregarded.

ON BOARD THE CEPHEUS.

Handbills Redundant in the Fruitless Attempt to Land Passengers.

QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Up to 10 o'clock this morning no word had been received of either ravages of the plague in Hoffman and Swinburn islands, or on the detained steamships Moravia, Rugia, Normanna, Wyoming and Scandia since yesterday.

The principal event of the morning was the arrival at quarantine of the iron steamboat Cepheus, after being buffeted about by the waves since early evening during her ineffectual trip to Fire Island for the purpose of landing the Normanna's cabin passengers at the new refuge purchased by the state.

The Cepheus had on board this morning the 500 odd second cabin passengers from the Normanna. Their first-cabin associates from the unfortunate Hamburg liner had been transferred from the ramshackle, unseaworthy old tug Stonington yesterday, when it was found the old boat was not equal to the task of making Fire Island, even during a comparative calm.

The Cepheus's Night Trip.
In spite of the late hour at which the transfer was completed, Capt. Pierce started bravely off in the teeth of a rapidly increasing gale, to make the haven of refuge at Fire Island.

The Cepheus is staunch and a good seagoing craft, but she rolled and tossed to such an extent that the pilot on The World's tug was ordered to keep close by her in order to render her assistance if needed. When the bar at Fire Island was reached Capt. Pierce dared not attempt to cross it, as he had no pilot and was not himself familiar with the inlet.

The storm was steadily increasing, and the only thing to do was to put back. The return trip was long and tedious, and it was nearly 2 o'clock this morning before she again pulled up alongside the Stonington in the lower bay and transferred the first cabin passengers back to the dimly lighted quarters they had left hours before.

They were not starving, but they had nothing to eat but sandwiches, nor to drink but coffee, and the supply of even that was limited.

The second cabin passengers from the Normanna remained on board the Cepheus, and had for the time being cleaner if not more luxurious quarters than their first cabin brethren. At 4 o'clock this morning the Cepheus tied up at the quarantine dock and began taking on coal. It was 8.30 before she was ready to steam down the bay again.

At 6 o'clock, when Dr. DeWitt went down to the dock, two of the imprisoned passengers stepped to the rail and thus earnestly and piteously addressed him.

"As American citizens, in perfect health, with American wives and daughters waiting for us, we demand to be released and allowed to go to our homes."

Dr. Jenkins only replied to this appeal was a quiet smile. A half dozen stalwart policemen stood by ready to keep any one from leaving or boarding the boat. At one time it looked as if their services would be needed to prevent a stampede of the restless captives from their prison vessels.

To an Evening World reporter Dr. Jenkins said: "The Cepheus will proceed to Lower Quarantine, where she will again take on the Normanna's first-cabin passengers from the Stonington and then proceed to Fire Island and land them there in company with the second-cabin people."

One of the passengers on the Cepheus, whose name is withheld for obvious reasons, shouted to an Evening World man on shore that fully nine-tenths of the passengers were terribly sick from the fruitless trip to Fire Island last night. The appearance of most of them this morning bore out the truth of this statement.

MAY CALL FOR TROOPS.

Dr. Jenkins Determined to Land His People on Fire Island.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Dr. Jenkins' demonstration of the people of Babylon and Isip against the occupation of Fire Island is a new and grave source of worry to Dr. Jenkins, who, to say the least, apprehensive of serious results.

"I confess," said the health officer to an Evening World reporter this morning, "that the situation is grave. These people are alarmed without cause, and I am sure that they are deeply aggrieved over their outrageous conduct. The reports received from Fire Island indicate that a collision between the residents of that vicinity and my special police may be precipitated either at the time of landing the passengers at Fire Island or some time not long thereafter."

"I am prepared for such an exigency, and have detailed 50 extra police for duty on the island with instructions to put down any attempted demonstrations against my authority by the hot-headed and inconsiderate residents of Isip."

"These people have talked themselves into the belief that the plague will surely be introduced here, and that they are being overruled by the people from the Normanna, who are really as free from disease or infection as they are. They have made all sorts of threats, among others, that the infection of the people in the hotel. That cannot be done except by the greatest strategy under the cover of night, and even then the co-operation of some of the police on watch would be necessary in order to even make an attempt sufficient to cause a scare."

"I have no fear, however, that such an attempt will be made, but if so, we be to the perpetrator. The police are alert, and will deal harshly with any one caught in the attempt of any sort of violence."

The sole police protection for Fire Island as at present arranged consists of thirty-five special officers, but the force may be increased during the forenoon to fifty, which number Dr. Jenkins believes will be sufficient to suppress any local uprising and to prevent any violence.

Should the people carry out their threats and make an organized attempt to prevent the landing of passengers, Dr. Jenkins will call upon the Governor for one or two companies of the National Guard. This step will only be taken as a last resort.

Said Dr. Jenkins: "I intend to land the Normanna's passengers before 5 o'clock this afternoon, and I will land them in the face of any local opposition."

"If the people invite a conflict with the authorities the consequences will be upon their own heads, and I have so advised them. Secretary McGuire said to-day that there would be no armed uprisings among the mob at Fire Island, and as usual more went down on the Cepheus this morning. He believed this force could disperse in a few moments any crowd that opposed the landing of the passengers."

HIBING SPECIAL POLICEMEN.
WILKINSON'S Detective Agency Employed Men for Fire Island.

WATCHMEN.—Wanted, three steady, sober men who can come well recommended, to act as watchmen on the island of Fire Island, at John A. Mussey's saloon, just outside the limits of the state's property, is the rendezvous of the ill-situated. Dr. Voight has ordered it to be closed. His order has been disregarded.

The above advertisement in The World to-day brought fully three hundred men to the building at the corner of John Street and Broadway this morning.

They packed the entrances both on Broadway and John Street, and took complete possession of the stairways all the way up to the top of the building. The men of Wilkinson's Detective Agency are located.

The crowd was so great that other tenants of the building could not get to their rooms, and the police were finally summoned to clear the building, which they did in short order.

The unusual crowd around the entrance, however, attracted great attention, and it soon became known that the detectives, instead of waiting for other men, were engaged by the state, at the request of the quarantine authorities.

They were wanted to go down to Fire Island to act as a special police force, and were to be paid $5.00 a day and receive their board. A constant stream of applicants was pouring in at one door of the agency, and after a brief examination the men would come out at another door lower down in the hallway, either engaged or rejected, as the case might be.

Those who were engaged said that they were to go to Fire Island this afternoon. One man said that he had been offered a particular and peculiar privilege under quarantine. This has been done out of the very unit and friendliest motives on the part of Dr. Robinson, said he, and he said that he would be paid $5.00 a day and receive his board. He said that he would be paid $5.00 a day and receive his board. He said that he would be paid $5.00 a day and receive his board.

"I am not a doctor and should expect none, but I am firm in the conviction that the quarantine against the people of Babylon and Isip is unjust. I am willing to share it with my unfortunate associates to the end."

FOSTER GOES TO WASHINGTON.

THE SECRETARY DEPARTS HURRIEDLY AND UNEXPECTEDLY.

Reporters who called at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning to see Secretary of the Treasury Foster about the Sandy Hook and Fire Island complications, were informed that he had gone to Washington.

The secretary's departure was sudden and unexpected, as he said Saturday that he would stay in New York until the cholera trouble was settled.

Mr. Foster's wife and daughter accompanied him to Washington. He left no word as to the cause of his departure.

GOV. FLOWER IS DETERMINED.

He Will Enforce Quarantine with the Whole Power of the State.

Gov. Flower, accompanied by his wife and Private Secretary Williams, arrived in this city at 12 o'clock this morning from Waterbury, the governor's home, and registered at the Windsor Hotel.

The governor breakfasted at 8 o'clock, after which he met Prof. C. A. Collins, of Cornell University, his legal adviser, who had preceded him to this city. Their consultation was interrupted by the arrival of the health officer, secretary of the state Board of Health, and Dr. Herman M. Egan, the consulting pathologist of the Board of Health of this city, who called at the Governor's invitation.

Gov. Flower said to an Evening World reporter:

health authorities, and that the men had been sent down."

"Are you not engaging more to be sent down there?"

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Brady, "the three men we advertised for this morning are for quite another purpose. I assure you, they have all the men they want at Fire Island now."

"Do you mean to say you have only engaged three men this morning?"

"Well, we may get a few more, as we always want to have men on hand. I can't tell you what these men are wanted for. Quite impossible. I can only say we need men in our business. No; they are not wanted to protect the leading railroad property. We have nothing to do with that sort of work."

At noon there was still a large contingent of applicants hanging about the halls and the entrance to the building, waiting for a chance to be examined as to their qualifications for performing the duties of watchmen at Fire Island.

SANDY HOOK NOT READY.

No Passengers to Be Transferred to the Camp There To-Day.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Dr. Jenkins says that Sandy Hook will probably not be occupied to-day. He has not been officially notified that the place is ready for occupancy, and consequently has made no preparations to transfer passengers.

"It is not to be noticed that the barracks had been completed and that everything was in readiness, he said, he could not arrange for the transfer of passengers until late this afternoon and perhaps not until to-morrow."

A REPORT FROM THE RUGIA.

Dr. Steiglitz Says Patients Were Left There Three Days.

A letter was received this forenoon from Dr. Leo Steiglitz, of 173 East 125th street, who is on board the Hamburg steamer Rugia, having volunteered to go to the Rugia to assist the steamer's physician, Dr. Borchardt.

Dr. Steiglitz left his home much against his father's wishes Sept. 3, and reached the Rugia early Sunday morning, Sept. 4. He is a graduate from the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Steiglitz's letter was addressed to Dr. J. H. Asch, 770 Lexington avenue, who will present it to a conference of physicians to be presided over by Dr. Jacoby this afternoon.

The doctor says: "I found everything very nice except the dirt in the steerage. Capt. Lothausen and Dr. Borchardt isolated all cases of sickness, and treated them as cholera. Nevertheless, there was scarcely room, and it was necessary the patients should be removed."

"I expect to remain through the quarantine, although the passengers may be released in two days."

Dr. Borchardt separated all cases of sickness, so that it was impossible that there could be any communication between sick passengers and those not stricken. All suspicious cases were quickly isolated. The steerage rooms into which they were called looked at if it had been a hospital. The patients were assembled there.

"Monday, Sept. 5, we had very bad cases of cholera and our hospital (on the ship) was full—so full that the last bed was occupied and it was impossible to put another patient in. Not until Tuesday (Sept. 6) did a boat come from the health officer to take our sick people off to Swinburn Island—three full days. I am astonished that Dr. Jenkins did not lose at least 50 per cent. of the cases in removing them from the steamer to the island hospital."

"I had some very severe cases of real Asiatic cholera on the island, which died in two or three hours. The treatment was calomel, injections of tannin and salt."

"As long as the steerage passengers are on the Rugia I do not believe the steamer can be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected."

ISLAND PATIENTS CONVALESCING.

Dr. Byron Expects No More Deaths at Swinburn.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Dr. Jenkins this afternoon gave out the following report, received at 10.55 from Deputy Health Officer O'Hare, in charge of Hoffman Island:

"There are no new cases. The Normanna's baggage is being again disinfected. The Rugia's was received this morning, and will be fumigated at once."

A report from the health officer at Swinburn Island, dated midnight, Sept. 11, was as follows: "Total number admitted to hospital, 121; number of suspects, 56; total treated for cholera, 27; died in hospital, 13; dead bodies admitted, 14; transferred back to Hoffman Island, 12; discharged as cured, 1."

All the patients on the island are said to be improving, and Dr. Byron does not apprehend any further deaths among the patients now there.

MANAGER PALMER TO JENKINS.

He Disclaims the Desire for Any Special Favors or Privileges.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Dr. Jenkins today gave out this letter for publication:

My Dear Dr. Jenkins:
I am distressed to notice that Dr. Robinson continues to insist that he and his family have particular and peculiar privileges under quarantine. This has been done out of the very unit and friendliest motives on the part of Dr. Robinson, said he, and he said that he would be paid $5.00 a day and receive his board. He said that he would be paid $5.00 a day and receive his board.

"I am not a doctor and should expect none, but I am firm in the conviction that the quarantine against the people of Babylon and Isip is unjust. I am willing to share it with my unfortunate associates to the end."

GOV. FLOWER IS DETERMINED.

He Will Enforce Quarantine with the Whole Power of the State.

Gov. Flower, accompanied by his wife and Private Secretary Williams, arrived in this city at 12 o'clock this morning from Waterbury, the governor's home, and registered at the Windsor Hotel.

The governor breakfasted at 8 o'clock, after which he met Prof. C. A. Collins, of Cornell University, his legal adviser, who had preceded him to this city. Their consultation was interrupted by the arrival of the health officer, secretary of the state Board of Health, and Dr. Herman M. Egan, the consulting pathologist of the Board of Health of this city, who called at the Governor's invitation.

Gov. Flower said to an Evening World reporter:

porter a few minutes before the conference that he came here to do whatever he could towards facilitating the work of quarantining the passengers of the detained steamships, and at the same time aid Health Officer Jenkins in his work of preventing the cholera from reaching the shore.

"I may be here one day," said the Governor, "and I may be here a month, but my stay here will depend entirely on the situation."

"I expect Health Officer Jenkins here this morning, but if he cannot leave Waterbury I will go down there this afternoon and see him."

"What my plans are beyond to-day I am not now in a position to state."

Gov. Flower added that the reason why he came to New York at this particular time was that in his estimation the gravity of the situation demanded that he should be personally present at Babylon regarding the attitude of the residents there in opposing the landing of the passengers on Fire Island.

"I have received no further intelligence," he said, "regarding the situation at Fire Island than that in the morning news, papers, and I am anxious to know how things are progressing there."

"I think the people at Babylon are unnecessarily alarmed. They are certainly laboring under a great misapprehension, particularly since the disease cannot possibly reach them."

"All these detained cabin passengers are considered well in a measure, and in any event the isolated position of Fire Island precludes the spreading of the disease, even should it break out there."

"Cholera microbes, I am informed, cannot travel across a mile of water, much less several miles, and consequently there is no danger to be apprehended in that regard."

"Aside from this, however, the state has purchased Fire Island for the accommodation of these passengers, and it means to occupy it for the purpose intended. I am here to take formal possession of the island in behalf of the state and to have the passengers landed on it under every power the law affords."

"Prof. Collins is here for the purpose of advising me as to my powers, and I am prepared to avail myself of every right the state enjoys in a matter of this kind."

"If possible I shall endeavor to have those passengers landed to-day."

Asked whether he would call out the troops in order to occupy the island as a quarantine station, Gov. Flower replied that he would use all the power vested in the state, if necessary, to make Fire Island the place for the quarantining.

Gov. Flower's conference with Drs. Steiglitz and Balch and Prof. Collins lasted until 1 o'clock, when the Governor returned to his official residence. Gov. Flower replied that he would use all the power vested in the state, if necessary, to make Fire Island the place for the quarantining.

Health Officer Jenkins had not reached the Windsor Hotel at 11 o'clock.

Gov. Flower, accompanied by Prof. Collins, Drs. Steiglitz and Balch, and Dr. Borchardt, went to quarantine about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Mayor Orin, after consultation with Supt. Byrne, placed the police post at the disposal of the Governor for his trip to quarantine, and this proffer was accepted.

Flower's proclamation was placed in the hands of the health officer, who was instructed to post copies of the proclamation in Babylon.

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR.

Warning Against Any Interference with the Quarantine Authorities.

The following was issued early this afternoon:

Proclamation by the Governor.
For the release and protection of the passengers on board the cholera-infected vessels now quarantined in the port of New York, I have caused to be purchased, on behalf of the state, certain property at Fire Island, in the county of Suffolk.

The state, through its officers, has taken possession of said property, and passengers from the infected vessels are to be transported there without delay.

In spite of this official action by state authority it is reported in the public press that certain persons are endeavoring to prevent the landing of said passengers, or the use of the state's property for purposes of quarantine, and have already, through local officers and citizens, made hostile demonstrations to that end.

I, therefore, direct the Sheriff of Suffolk County to use all his powers to prevent any such interference with the quarantine authorities, and to protect the landing of said passengers, and I command him to see that the said property is properly guarded against all violence, and that the quarantine officers are amply protected in the discharge of their duties.

I also warn all persons against illegal interference with the use of Fire Island as a quarantine station, and I direct all peace officers of the county to enforce obedience to the laws and compel respect for state authority. Failure to comply with the injunctions of this proclamation will be considered sufficient cause for removal from New York this 12th day of September, 1902. KOSWILL P. FLOWER, by the Governor.

SOME SHIPS RELEASED.

Wieland, Kaiser Wilhelm and Amal Released at Quarantine.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.—Three ships were anchored at Upper Quarantine at 10 o'clock this morning. The Kaiser Wilhelm, from Cherbourg Sept. 3; Wieland, from Hamburg Aug. 28; Neutria, from Marseilles Aug. 21, which arrived at 8.05 this morning, and the Aller, from Bremen Sept. 3, Southampton Sept. 4.

The Belgienland, from Antwerp Aug. 31, was reported east of the Sandy Hook lightship at 8.05.

This morning, also, the Kaiser Wilhelm I, Buthman, from Hamburg Aug. 20, and the Amal, from Hamburg Aug. 20, both bring passengers and have no sickness on board. The Kaiser Wilhelm I, the morning after, was released. The Amal, which was all-went to Upper Quarantine yesterday, will be fumigated at 1 o'clock, which will not be before to-morrow. When La Chaigne will be released is not known.

ENJOINED BY JUDGE BARNARD.

Landing of Passengers at Fire Island Temporarily Restrained.

Justice Joseph F. Barnard, of the Supreme Court, sitting in Brooklyn, this morning granted a temporary injunction, directed to Gov. Flower, Health Officer Jenkins, Dr. S. S. Sammis, the captain of the steamboats Stonington and Cepheus and all others, restraining them from landing at the Surf Hotel or any other part of the town of Isip any passengers or baggage that has been subject to quarantine, or that has been on any steamship that has been exposed to cholera or detained at quarantine station.

The injunction was granted on the application of the Board of Health of Isip, which consists of William H. Young, Julius Hauser, John M. Howell, George B. Studley, Harry C. Clock, John Z. O'Brien and George W. Oelrichs.

The application was made through Lawyers Paul and Hunt to restrain the authorities from establishing a quarantine station at Fire Island.

Thursday morning Justice Barnard will hear argument on the question of making the injunction permanent.

The papers in the suit were drawn up by the counsel for the Board of Health of Suffolk County. It is alleged that a quarantine station at Fire Island would work incalculable damage to the surrounding property.

The fish and oyster business would be ruined and hundreds of people would be thrown out of employment. The south side would also be subjected to a summer of pestilence and property would decrease in value.

Affidavits by physicians were presented, declaring that the health of the people would be jeopardized.

Justice Barnard hesitated before granting the injunction. He went over the papers carefully, and counsel called attention to the fact that at least three cases of cholera had been reported within the last two days. In each case a thorough investigation was made, and they were found to be not cholera but cholera-morbus.

Cholera Hospital for Dockhands.
The American Sugar Refining Co., Jersey City, employing several hundred men at the foot of Washington street, has had a building erected in its yard to be used in case of need as a cholera hospital for its employees. The men are exposed in the unloading of vessels.

FLOWER COMMENDS JENKINS.
The Governor Believes the Health Officer Has Acted Wisely.

Gov. Flower, while on his way from Albany to New York, sent the following despatch to Dr. Jenkins, Health Officer, Quarantine, New York:

Your despatch received, and I am very thankful that you have acted so promptly and with such ability and discretion. The feeling as voiced by the people of Babylon and New Isip, against the occupancy of Fire Island is intense. If the residents of the protest were placed where the passengers are, with deaths from the plague occurring daily under their feet, they would think no sacrifice too great to relieve them.

The sober second thought will convince them that your action is wise and for the best interest of the whole country as well as their own homes. Well done, good and faithful servant.

Shortly before noon Gov. Flower received this telegram from Health Officer Jenkins:

QUARANTINE, N. I., Sept. 12.
Gov. Flower, Windsor Hotel.
Thank you for your encouragement and help in my trying position between the citizens at home and the citizens at quarantine. The Cepheus is now at my dock taking supplies, coal and water. My anxiety last night was intense.

WILLIAM T. JENKINS, Health Officer.
Shortly before 1 o'clock Gov. Flower received word from Health Officer Jenkins that he would be at the Windsor at 1.30 o'clock to accompany him down the bay.

TO CHARTER THE WIELAND.

Word was received by the Governor this afternoon that President Both Low, of Columbia College, representing the Chamber of Commerce, is negotiating to charter the steamer Wieland, which is now at the place of the Cepheus in transporting quarantined passengers.

It was stated by the Governor that the Cepheus was expected to reach Fire Island at 1.45, and that if she is not allowed to land her passengers will be transferred to the Wieland. If that vessel is secured, and will then be landed at Sandy Hook.

WASHED ON JERSEY SHORES.

A Box Marked "Normanna" Found in Debris on the Beach.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
PORT MONMOUTH, N. J., Sept. 12.—People at this place, Atlantic Highlands, Keanburg and Keyport are greatly alarmed at the floating refuse about their shores supposed to come from the infected ships detained in New York bay. Mattresses, trunks, pillows, valises, boxes, bundles of clothing, decayed food, such as pork and any quantity of vegetables, are floating ashore all along the New Jersey coast.

President Hunt, of the New Jersey State Board of Health, has visited all the places along the beach and established a patrol along the entire beach from Keyport to Atlantic Highlands.

The town boards were also visited by President Hunt, who gave them instructions to patrol up and down the beach, collect and burn or bury all the refuse. Several articles, such as trunks, have been packed away without being opened. Several packages were opened in which were many costly articles, such as fine lace-trimmed underwear. A box branded "Normanna" was also found.
